PROJECTS

University of Wisconsin
Star - Full Stack Developer
- Employee time and management tool, we use Angular to handle the javascript, employ sass for styling, gulp for build tools, git for version control, and work in an agile work flow.

Tech Store - Front End Developer and Scrum Master
- E-commerce platform, we use Magento content management system, docker, less for styling, git for version control, and work in an agile workflow.

Morningstar
Morningstar Investment Services - QA Engineer
- Individual investment platform, I wrote C# for selenium that automated our testing processes

Retirement Manager - UI Engineer
- Retirement management platform, we used Node.JS to handle data, Ember.JS for the front-end, D3.JS for data visualization, employed Jenkins as a build tool, git for version control, and worked in an agile workflow.

The Pond - UI Engineer, Scrum Master
- Internal communications tool, we wrote JavaScript components using ES6 for confluence, an Atlassian CMS platform. I served as a scrum master to help the technical team understand the business needs and uphold the standards of the agile workflow.

Enterprise Components - Technical Project Manager
- Enterprise tools and components for various clients, I worked with the product team to understand the business need of the components, and then worked with technologists, in an agile work flow, to build the software.

Lady Mafia
Co-Founder, Writer, Full Stack Developer
- Lady Mafia is a publication cataloguing the feminine force of people moving the earth towards a greater good. I started it with my fellow developer and good friend, Gaby Ruiz-Funes. We created all of the content featured on the site and designed and coded the platform.
